Presents:

A short lecture and film “Freedom, Love”

Join us on May 29 @ 6:00 p.m. for a short lecture accompanied by the film Szabadság, Szerelem (Freedom, Love) given by Peter Demjen.

Otherwise known as “Children of Glory”, the film takes place during Hungary’s heroic Revolution of 1956 against the communists. While Soviet tanks were destroying Hungary, the Hungarian water polo team was winning over the Soviets in the Olympic pool in Melbourne, in what has been described as the bloodiest water polo match in history. It became known as the “Blood in the Water” match. The film is 123 minutes long and is subtitled in English.

Peter Demjen has been living with his family in the Howard City area for the past year. They will be returning to Hungary in June where he serves as a judge.
